OCCUPANTS SAVED

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Smith of Clarion, were painfully injured in an automobile accident which happened on the Clearfield-Philipsburg State road, just this side of Idora Park, some time after midnight last night.

The Smiths were in a Willys-Knight sedan and accompanied by William J. Allison, of Clarion. They were traveling in the direction of Woodland, and had nearly reached Idora Park when a big car, traveling at a very rapid pace toward Clearfield, struck their car and turned it upside down along side the road.

The Smith car was badly wrecked and immediately caught fire and was burned up, the occupants being rescued from the wreckage just in time to escape more serious injury, by passing motorists upon the scene shortly after the accident occurred.

The driver of the car which caused the accident never stopped but, stepping on the gas continued on toward Clearfield at a 50 mile per hour gait, according to the driver of the car they passed just beyond the scene of the accident. The car is said to have been a Marmon. The State motor patrol is making an investigation and hopes to locate the culprit.

The Smiths were brought to the Clearfield Hospital for medical treatment and were able to leave for their home today at noon. Their car is a total wreck.

An automobile driven by a Philipsburg colored man skidded off the road at the turn this side of Idora Park on Saturday afternoon and stuck its nose down into the ditch. Nobody hurt and the wrecking crew was called upon and soon retrieved the slightly damaged car.

Some fellow in a Ford attempted to climb a telephone pole at Bigler on Sunday. The Ford ran out of "traction" when about half way up the pole and dropped back to earth with a "thud" and several extra yards of tin flapping about.

A motorist from Erie, while driving toward Chrvensville became blinded by the lights of a passing car, missed the crossing just below the New York Central bridge across the river, and ran a considerable distance on the B. R. & P. railroad tracks before stopping. The car was brought back to the road after a great deal of difficulty, but little the worse for its side step.

SENATOR COLT DIES

Bristol, R. I., Aug. 18. (INS.)—U. S. Senator LeBaron B. Colt died at his summer home at Linden Place early today after a lingering illness. Senator Colt was 78 years old.

Colt's Death Leaves
Sen. Hiram Johnson In Immigration Control

Washington, Aug. 18. (INS.)—Any hopes for the repeal of the Japanese exclusion provision of the American law were believed to have faded today with the death of Senator LeBaron B. Colt, Republican of Rhode Island, who had served for a number of years as Chairman of the Senate Immigration Committee.

Senator Colt's death leaves Senator Hiram Johnson of California as the ranking Republican member of the Committee.

Senator Johnson with his colleague, Senator Samuel Shortridge, was one of the leaders in the fight to have the Japanese exclusion provision placed in the law.

LEGION MEN FULL OF PEP AND GINGER
IN PREPARATION FOR GREENSBURG

Plans have been completed by the local Legion boys for the trip to the State Convention at Greensburg this week, and from present indications a large crowd will attend. Two communications received at Post headquarters yesterday will add "pep" to the boys and be a big inducement to those who are doubtful to "jine" their comrades on the march to Greensburg. The following telegram received from Paul Brown, chairman of reservation committee, will bring cheer to "special trainers":

"Our post has decided to take a loss of $500.00 on cost of coats in order to give rate in dormitories to visitors of $1 per night per man. If satisfactory please advise at once by wire the exact number of men you will have in your party."

of their visitors. The reduction for sleeping quarters means the local Legionnaires can get their railroad tickets and lodging for $10.50 instead of $13.50 as originally stated. The reduction is going to help many to decide to go and reservations should be made promptly.

Official notice of Clearfield finishing first in the state contest for increase in membership has been received and follows:

"It gives me great pleasure to inform you that your Post has won the Department cup for increased membership in your class. This cup will be presented to your Post at the State Convention and you should have a large delegation on hand to receive same."

GAME COMMISSION
AGAINST TINKERING
WITH GAME LAWS

Harrisburg, Aug. 18. (INS.)—No changes should be made in the game laws of the state, the Pennsylvania State Game Commission declares in its biennial report submitted to Governor Pinchot today.

"The game code in its present form should be given a thorough trial," the game commission report reads, "and we are strongly of the opinion that no amendments should be recommended for consideration at the present time."

The members of the commission explained that the two year period which ended on June 1, 1924, was the most successful in the history of the commission and that tinkering with the existing game code would lead to confusion and trouble.

Considerable space in the report is devoted to discussion of the damage wrought by deer raiding the crops of farmers for food. Trapping female deer, the game commission report indicates, has proved ineffectual and the commission recommends the opening of the season on female deer in those portions of Pennsylvania where the problem is acute. That process, the commission state, will not only largely eliminate the evil but in addition would better balance the sexes as the

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS
WEDNESDAY WITH AN EXCELLENT PROGRAM

With the striking of the first note by the Pan-American Marimba Band under the big brown tent at the High School playground on Wednesday afternoon, Clearfield's 1924 Chautauqua will be under way. The program this year, as every year since 1913, will be presented by the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association.

An unusually attractive repertoire of lectures, music and entertainment will be offered to the citizens of Clearfield and community during the week of festivity from August 26 to 29. Since this year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the first Chautauqua at Lake Chautauqua, New York, unusual attention has been given to the program in order that it might be one which would adequately express the ideals of the Chautauqua movement.

The lectures of the week will be given by Dr. Samuel Grafflin, religious and industrial secretary of the world's largest Y. M. C. A., who speaks on the subject, "Keeping America Strong"; Frank Tannbaum, student, writer, and lecturer of international repute who discusses the subject of "Crime and Punishment"; Dr. George P. Bible, former college president and platform man of many years' experience, whose lecture is called "Life and Opportunity," and Mr. O. H. Benson, head of the committee on children's education in the United States Department of Agriculture, who talks about "Broadcasting Youth's Achievements." Dr. Grafflin speaks on Saturday night and will also give the address at the community service in the Chautauqua tent on next Sunday evening.

The Chautauqua program presents a pleasing and varied array of musical attractions ranging from the classic song recital of Miss Louise Stallings to the popular orchestral and vocal concert of the Oceanic Ladies Quintet. In addition to the quintet and Miss and Unusual Accident

Near Grass Flat.

PINNED UNDER CAR

Lawrence Swartzel, one of the substantial farmers and upright, good citizens of Cooper township, met instant death in an automobile accident which occurred on the township road in the Cooper township village of Grassflat.

The accident occurred about 6 o'clock Sunday evening. Mr. Swartzel, accompanied by his father-in-law, Frank B. Fulmer, two of Mr. Fulmer's sons, Ed. Pifer, of Altoona, and a young son of the deceased, started out for a drive. Mr. Swartzel was driving and suddenly the car started to swerve about in the road from side to side, finally turning over in the roadway. Mr. Swartzel was caught under the windshield and his neck broken. His neck was also badly gashed by glass from the broken windshield.

The deceased, who is a brother of John Swartzel, of Second Street, was 48 years of age and was born and raised in Cooper township. He is survived by his widow and five children.

The funeral will be held from the Catholic Church at Cooper on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. Interment in the cemetery there.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Wair, Mr. C. A. Wair, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Brown, of Dorey street, arrived home Saturday after a week's visit with relatives in York and vicinity.

Clandestine Yellow Dog
Said To Have Heard The Mystic Password And
Gazed Upon Sacred Relic

The Ancient, Honorable, Effervescent, Evasive, Transcendental and Apocalyptic Order of Yellow Dogs, of Curwensville and vicinity, will assemble around the ancient relic, in the K9 Kennel at Curwensville on Tuesday evening of this week at 7:58 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time. A great many important matters pertaining to the secret workings of the ancient order, together with a referendum vote on the change of the pass word will be considered.

It has reached the ears of the grand exalted chief cur that at the last meeting in the K-9 Kennel at Irvin Park a few people on the outside unconsciously overheard the chief cur reveal the pass word of the order and that a clandestine yellow dog, or pretended yellow dog, of Mucklerat, four miles from Squodunk, near old Beaver Dam, has been pretending to know all about this ancient order.

The grand exalted chief cur has issued a dispensation so that at the meeting on Tuesday night not over 100 new members may be admitted, and not over 50 of these can be from the same town. We understand that Clearfield has petitioned for 50 candidates on Tuesday night, and we are assured that this many may be admitted, even if Curwensville is compelled to hold a special meeting to accommodate its large number of applicants. Special candidates are arranged for from Olanta, Kernmoor, New Millport, Clearfield, and Dubois. It is expected that Hon. A. R. Chase and Hon. Singleton Bell will explain some of the history connected with this ancient order.

We note that the Labor Day committee has the large posters out for Labor Day and it looks as if Curwensville is going to have a great day on the first of September.

Mrs. W. S. Jones, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. H. Aggar, returned to her home in Indiana, Pa.

LET NO ONE OF US BE WITHOUT TICKETS
FOR THE BEST BAND
CONCERT OF SEASON

John Shade Post of the American Legion of course wants to take its incomparable Legion Band to the state convention at Greensburg on Thursday next. As a matter of course it takes money to pay the expenses of the band. Therefore the Legion has arranged to have the band give a concert at the Driving Park Wednesday evening and in order that funds for the band expense at Greensburg may be realized a charge of 50 cents at the gate will be exacted of all those who attend. Everybody who can possibly do so should attend this concert, but if you can't be present to enjoy the excellent program, be sure to do your part by purchasing a ticket from one of the solicitors offering them for sale about the town today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

The Legion Band is one of Clearfield's greatest assets. It puts the town on the map wherever it goes and makes it stay put. The boys hope to cop the prize at the Greensburg convention and will surely appreciate your effort to help them get there.

PATTON CONVENTION

The 32nd annual convention and tournament of the Central District Volunteer Firemen's Association will be held this year, at the beautiful mountain city of Patton, Aug. 20, 21, 22. Firemen throughout the entire district are planning to attend this convention in greater numbers than ever before, while on the part of the Patton Fire Department no effort has been evaded which will add to the entertainment and enjoyment of the visitors.

Many towns about the district whose fire departments have not heretofore maintained membership in the association have made application this year and will be well represented with men and apparatus. The Patton Fire Department has hung a larger prize list than any yet offered in the district and without a doubt this will put a keener edge on the rivalry for first honors in both the parade and athletic events.

The Clearfield firemen have completed arrangements whereby a special train will be run to and return from Patton on Thursday, Aug. 21st, leaving the N. Y. C. station at 7:45 a.m. with a reduced fare rate of $2.95 for the round trip. Certificates authorizing the purchase of a reduced fare ticket can be secured from the chief or secretary of the Fire Department or from the foreman of any company. The railroad ticket agent cannot sell you a reduced fare ticket unless you present a certificate.

The American Legion Band will accompany the Clearfield firemen to the convention and after playing in the band contest in the evening will travel by jitney to Cresson, where they will board a special train en route from Clearfield to the Legion convention at Greensburg, Pa. Any Legion men and firemen, or such others as there may be, may also avail themselves of the overland cross-cut from Patton to Cresson and take in both conventions on one trip.

The Clearfield firemen desire to thank all those who in any way assisted at their open air festival Aug. 12 in Upper Wiltner Park. Not quite sufficient funds were realized to pay the expenses of the band to Patton, consequently another appeal will have to be made later.

Miss Rose Snyder, of Roaring Spring, is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford A. Shaw at their home on West Front street.

VISITORS TO FAIR
WILL BE SURPRISED
AT IMPROVEMENTSThree Acres Added To Parking Space and Put In Dry Condition; Big Steel Grandstand Too.

STAND IS A MODEL

The visitor to the big Clearfield County Fair which will be held September 23, 24, 25 and 26, is in for a pleasant surprise at the improvements which he will find about the park since last year, in addition to the excellent attractions and fair exhibits, which he has a right to expect, judging the future by the past several years.

The fair management and Park Association ever since the present efficient management took charge, have been putting back each year, in the way of enlargement, improvement and addition, all the profits—and then some—realized on each year's fair. Much has been accomplished in previous years, but this year far outstrips all others.

Shortly after last year's fair, a piece of ground containing a little more than three acres, adjoining the park in the rear was purchased from Miss Alice Massop to add to the park. This new addition made possible the squaring up of the rear-end of the property and extending the park clear back to Mill Road and, while not very desirable in appearance when purchased, has since been cleared up, leveled and drained and has made a most desirable addition. Ash roads have been made through and about it and every foot of it made available now as parking space for automobiles. The driveway from the main gate through the grounds has been extended around the west side of the new plot and makes a straight-away road through from one side of the park to the other, which will greatly facilitate the handling of traffic in the park, while adding much to the safety of fair patrons. It also serves to make the Clearfield Park the largest and finest amusement and recreation place in Central Pennsylvania.

The crowning feature of this year's improvements however, is the handsome big steel and concrete grandstand now rapidly nearing completion. This stand which is designed to seat about 1100 people, is without a doubt the largest and best stand ever erected in a town our size anywhere the country over, and that is the expert opinion of the Osborne Engineering Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, who designed and are supervising the erection of the stand, the cost of which is in the capable hand of Co. tractors, Dresser, Minton & Co., (Continued On Page Two)

POLICE RAID MIKE
MILLER'S "POKER"
FOUNDRY; TAKE 11

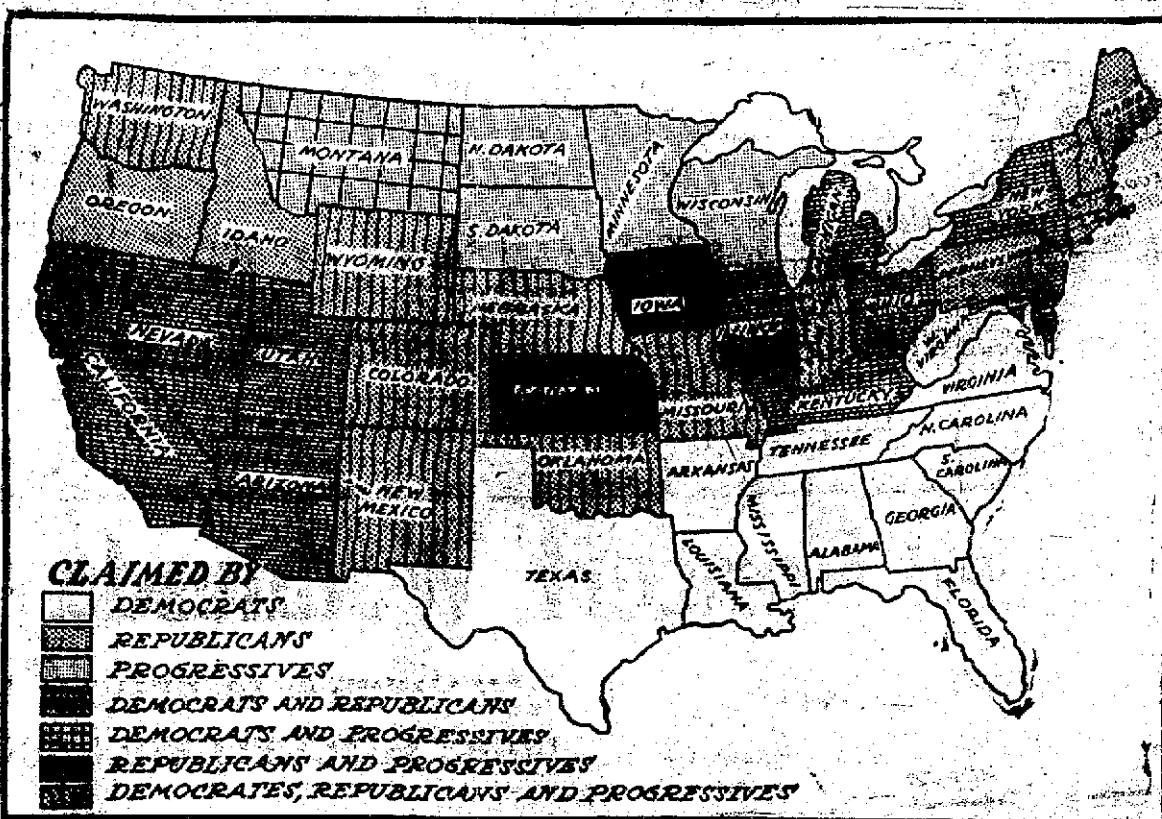

A bunch of local and Curwensville "short card" artists are gunning for an alleged gambling room proprietor, who violated all the ethics of this sporting fraternity when he gave away the snap which resulted in the pulling of Mike Miller's "poker" foundry" down on Daisy street Saturday night last.

The police had been on the lookout for "the game" for some time and while snooping about one of the places suspected, the fellow alleged to be running that game and who is said to have been peevish because "the gang" went to the other place, told the officers to go to Miller's joint where they would find a game going.

Chief McMullen and Officer Woolridge hustled down to the Miller place at corner of Sixth and Daisy streets, where they found a sort of conclave of gamblers. A survey showed no less than four or five different nationalities represented in the 11 men captured.

A "pat" totaling about $30 was found on the table when Chief McMullen ordered "hands down" and hands up. The gamblers will appear before the mayor this evening on a disorderly conduct charge, while Miller will be turned over to the county authorities to be prosecuted for running a gambling house.

Here Is the Electoral Vote by States:

Illinois	25	Missouri	18	Oregon	8	Wisconsin	13
Indiana	29	Montana	4	Pennsylvania	35	Wyoming	5

Never probably was there so doubtful a presidential campaign as this year's. Political bosses of the three tickets are each claiming a victory. Your guess is about as good as theirs. The states are shaded to show the claims being made at this time by the candidates. Republicans claim 251 votes, 15 more than enough to win. Democrats claim 159 votes, sure and have visions of carrying three more states—while Progressives have 39 votes in their column and see many doubtful states. Get out your pencil and figure it out for yourself.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

In politics as in other things history has the age-old habit of repeating itself. It is particularly important that this should be kept in mind at the present moment, they believe, when many of the rank and file of the Republican party are affected by natural curiosity as to the effect that the launching of the La Follette candidacy may have on the fortune of President Coolidge and the success of the party in the November elections.

Here follows some information regarding previous independent movements.

The first independent attempt to split the Republican party was formulated at Cleveland in 1864 and its purpose was to prevent the re-election of Abraham Lincoln. The movement bore more than surface resemblance to the radical convention that nominated La Follette at Cleveland and for this reason its history may be worth recounting.

In 1864 the radical combination that launched the independent ticket, the first of its kind ever launched, nominated General John C. Fremont for president and General John C. Cochrane for vice president. Both candidates were selected from New York state despite the constitutional provision against any one state having the two candidates on a ticket. Some of the New York delegates wanted to nominate General Grant but they were dubbed "Lincoln hirelings" and promptly suppressed the convention.

Fremont and Cochrane accepted the nomination in long letters abusing President Lincoln as a tyrant who ignored the constitution and also a weakling incapable of administering the government or of conducting a successful war. For six weeks they were candidates and they were just as optimistic regarding the campaign as third party candidates usually are immediately after a convention. They made just the kind of claims that are being made at the present time by the supporters of the La Follette ticket.

Before the end of August both Fremont and Cochrane wrote other long letters again abusing and criticizing the president but withdrawing their candidacies. The "Radical Democratic Party," as it was designated by the convention, went into oblivion with the withdrawal of its candidates.

Lincoln, by quoting the Bible reference to the gathering around David after he had taken refuge from King Saul in the cave of Adullam, suggested the name of Adullamites for the third party and as such they were popularly known until their candidacies were withdrawn and they were forgotten.

The only political influence this third party convention of 1864 had was on the Democratic national convention held in Chicago a few weeks later. Many Democratic leaders were impressed with the noise and claims made by the men who met in Cleveland and also with the indiscriminate use made of the names of prominent Republicans as in sympathy with the third party.

They had listed Horace Greely as a delegate to the Cleveland convention because of his criticism of Lincoln, but Greely said that the only convention in which he was interested was the convention of Grant before Richmond. Assuming that the Republican party was hopelessly split, the more radical Democratic leaders in the Chicago convention embodied in the platform a declaration that the war was a failure and demanded a cessation of hostilities. They then proceeded to nominate General McClellan, the most conspicuous failure of the war, as their candidate. These declarations in the platform together with the nomination of General McClellan, alienated thousands of loyal Democrats who openly gave their support to Lincoln assuring his overwhelming election.

The Adullamites of 1864, therefore, contributed to the re-election of Lincoln rather than to his defeat by misleading the Democrats into two calamities in their platform and their candidate.

builders of the big Bucknell stadium, with Supt. W. H. Dame in charge.

The big stand is being built of steel and reinforced concrete throughout, is 72x210 feet in size, with concrete ground floor, mezzanine second floor, while the stand at the back or top extends 40 feet into the air. In addition to the facilities mentioned the seating floor will be reached by a main stairway in the center underneath, while exit stairways are supplied at either end. In the rear at the top and the full 210 feet in length, will be a five-foot aisle or promenade, while lavatories and rest rooms are provided on the mezzanine floor. The space underneath the stand will be fitted for display and concession booths. The floor is concrete and equipped with electric lights, water and all necessary conveniences.

The stand will be equipped with comfortable chairs, instead of the usual concrete benches, which will be an added convenience to the patrons, and no necessary expense is being spared to make the stand the finest of its kind to be found anywhere.

The contractors have agreed to have the big stand ready for the fair and as they are now about one week ahead of their time schedule there can be no question but that they will accomplish their purpose and have the big stand completed well within that time.

A HOUSEFUL OF VISITORS

Probably no home in Clearfield is so visited for its hospitality as that of James Gray on Old T. W. Road. Rarely Sunday but that Jim does not have to dig out two or three of the hemlock planks to lengthen the dining room table. This week was no exception. Saturday evening Jim's brother Bill, from Bradenville, Pa., paid his annual visit bringing with him wife and daughter and the latter's husband Mr. Howard Sheriffs of Putnam, Conn. Bill's son Bill was also in the party.

With them was Mr. and Mrs. Benford and son. Benford is the fellow who made Cadillac and Chrysler famous in and around Latrobe. Soon after their arrival came a party from Syracuse, N. Y. In it was Mr. Alex. Forsythe, a sister of Mrs. Gray, his wife and two sons. Jim's son Dick and family arrived from Carnwath as did son-in-law John Maxwell from Osceola with Mrs. Maxwell and a little Maxwell runabout. Still Jim wasn't satisfied so he sent for the Hynds next door, his son George and family and the Stewarts across the street. Thru it all he smiled.

Seven Points of Supremacy

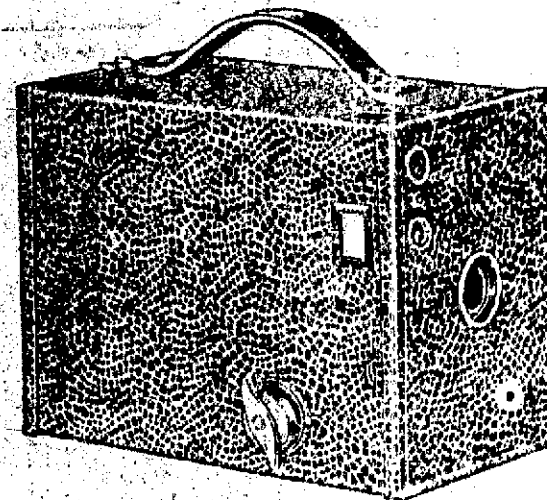

1. The sole leather used in "FOOT-FITTERS" is of the best quality obtainable. Even the insoles are cut from standard outside leather.
2. "FOOT-FITTERS" are the only shoes in the world having full length vamp and sole leather box toes. This feature prevents ripping at the tip and makes a smooth outer and inner surface.
3. The insoles are channelled so that they fit tightly against the outside. There is no need of room for a cork filler. A small piece of duck is used to prevent squeaking.
4. The Calico inside counter pocket is of great value, for it saves the wear on the socks. There is no rough surface to rub against.
5. "FOOT-FITTERS" heels are 12-inch longer than generally used. They give additional support to the arch and increase the comfort and wear of the shoe.
6. The vamp is reinforced with 8-oz. duck. This absorbs the moisture from the foot, thus keeps the vamp from cracking and holds the shoe in shape.
7. Edmonds "FOOT-FITTERS" shoes are called "FOOT-FITTERS" because they fit the foot snugly. Built on combination lasts they support the foot like a doctor's hand. "FOOT-FITTERS" give Comfort, Service and Appearance.

GOODYEAR SERVICE STATION

While this business has been in existence only since last February, it has grown to be one of the most important in local automobile circles. Originally started as a tire and accessory store, by Mr. F. B. Johnston, it soon became apparent that there was need of a vulcanizing plant in this city. A gasoline station and oil service station has been added to the equipment and at the present time the building is undergoing extensive repairs to accommodate the growing business which has come to this business through the medium of fair dealing and courteous service.

The firm is now composed of F. B. Johnston and Roy Curley, both men of high business ideals and unfailing courtesy. The location of the plant, just opposite the Pennsylvania passenger station on Third Street, makes the place easily accessible to every section of the entire vicinity.

Why It Will Pay You To Trade In Clearfield

"No man liveth unto himself alone."

So runs the scripture. And because this is true we have "community pride". And community pride promotes those improvements which will bring about a closer relationship between the people of the town and the people of the county, between the people as a whole and the community business center.

True Citizenship is not all in "Rally 'round the Flag" of our country and singing "Hail Columbia" at the top of our voices, nor does it find its greatest expression at the street corner meeting in the loudest voice present.

"Practice What You Preach" is a saying which may well be applied to define "True Citizenship", because the true spirit of true citizenship is shown by the person who patronizes home industries first, last and all time, trades with the home merchant and always uses "Home Goods".

In time of plenty or in time of stress; when danger besets us, or the whole world seems to be bright and happy, we can render no greater service to this great country of ours than by doing our part in keeping intact the resources of our own town—furthering the great spirit of Democracy which has made this nation the leader of the world and our part of that program is to make Clearfield a Bigger and Better City.

LAWYERS IN CONGRESS

Congress, considered as representing the nation, does so geographically, but falls far short of it occupationally. Anyone who imagines that that body is a cross-section of American society may learn from an article in the New Republic that if it were so, lawyers would be the most numerous class in the country.

There is an amazing preponderance of lawyers in Congress. In the House there are now 262 lawyers to 44 merchants, 13 teachers, 13 journalists, 10 farmers, 9 bankers, 9 manufacturers and a negligible scattering of other occupations. The Senate 53 lawyers to 8 farmers, 6 businessmen, 3 bankers, 3 journalists, 3 doctors and 3 teachers.

It is natural that lawyers should be elected to public office, especially to legislative bodies. They are usually clever speakers and good campaigners. Also, since the business of a legislature is making laws, lawyers are presumably better qualified than other men. But obviously the thing is being overdone.

On general principles, it is more important to have the sentiment of the country's various social, professional and economic groups adequately represented than to have representatives skilled in interpreting and writing laws. What any important group of citizens wants done is the main thing; lawyers can always be employed, when needed, to give the proper technical form to new laws.

Without any prejudice against the legal profession, it should be acknowledged that it would be better for representative government if such important groups as farmers, merchants, manufacturers, skilled workmen, doctors, educators and engineers were more fully represented in Congress and the state legislatures.

SAFE PLAYGROUNDS

Getting playground children to write a safe play code for themselves looks like a very useful way to work for their safety. That is what the Cleveland Safety Council is doing.

Hundreds of children from the many playgrounds of the community have sent in suggestions about ways to make play safe. A convention of councils from all the playgrounds will meet and select the 10 best suggestions for the playground safety code. Some typical suggestions were:

- "Don't fight, just scrap."
- "Don't hang on by the legs too long."
- "Don't blow an automobile horn for fun."
- "Don't hop on the ice wagon."
- "Don't throw stones, even if you don't hit anyone."
- "Don't drink from the hose."
- "Don't throw nails on the ground."
- "Don't run between pegs when a horseshoe game is on."
- "Don't neglect scratches."

The few samples given show that the youngsters are thinking of pretty nearly everything. And regardless of what the skeptics may say, the accident total among a lot of children who are thinking so thoroughly about safety is going to be lower than in other communities.

Saving Is A Mighty Power

People ought to know the big things that can be done with little savings.

A few hundred dollars started John D. Rockefeller in the oil business. A few thousand dollars of original investment made the Astors a race of millionaires.

Ten dollars a month deposited in this bank for ten years can be the foundation of a great fortune for you or your sons.

Progress Editorials for Women

THEY LIKED HER ANYHOW

By FLORENCE DAVIES
"I don't understand it," exclaimed a clubwoman who was telling of a bit of a row she had just had with the club. "I don't understand it. I got so mad at 'em all that I said dreadful things to them, and I thought they would never speak to me again, but they do. They seem to like me anyhow, and I'm sure I don't know why."

I wanted to interrupt her and tell her that if she didn't understand it I did. For I knew the woman. I didn't doubt her assertion that she spoke her mind. I knew she would. And I knew it might not be pleasant to hear, for when Anne speaks, she speaks to the point. I also knew that if there's one thing that isn't conducive to harmony in the average woman's club it's a propensity on the part of the members to "speak their minds." And yet Anne had done this very thing and they still liked her, to her great surprise.

The thing was perfectly simple. Anne was the living embodiment of sincerity. If she spoke her mind, it was because she honestly believed what she said and honestly cared and chided her club sisters as a loving mother chides her erring children. And the fact is, there is something about the absolutely genuine, something about unmitigated, undiluted sincerity that makes itself felt. If the club sisters took their tongue lashings from Anne when they knew perfectly well that Anne never fought for herself, never tried to pull wires, never tried to foster pet causes by little political subterfuges, Anne was forthright and out in the open about everything she undertook. She never had any pet friends to work for, she had hundreds of friends to whom she was loyal.

Even a woman's club, that touchiest of all organizations in the world, we sometimes think, can come to blows with a woman like that and not hold spite.

It was all because Anne was genuine, from the top of her fluffy golden hair, which in a perfectly genuine sincere way was a way of escaping hair nets, to the soles of her honest, comfortable, common-sense shoes. You might want to get mad at her when she tells you you're wrong, but you simply couldn't, because it isn't you that Anne rages at, it's the thing she thinks mistaken, and that's all. Any one with any sense can't escape that fact, and any one with any fairness is bound to recognize it. So Anne burst out now and then and rages, and they like her just the same. She can't quite understand it. It's all because sincerity is about the most refreshing thing in the world.

THE UNION SERVICE

Last night the Presbyterian Church was filled to the doors for the Union service of the Five Churches uniting for the summer evening worship. The singing of the combined choirs was most excellent. It was a most inspiring meeting. It was one of those services from which one goes away blessed, uplifted, and helped. Dr. John M. Waddell, a minister of the Presbyterian Church here 20 years ago preached a most masterful sermon on the theme of "Fear." It was a sermon of blessing, and helpfulness, one that is a lift along the way, a voice of good cheer, and hope. Many of other congregations rejoiced in the opportunity of hearing him. Next Sabbath is the last of the Summer Union Services, and it is with great regret that they do not extend longer. Not for years has a combined effort like this resulted in such a successful outcome. It is a great thing for every congregation and every individual to unite in such fellowship meetings as these. It broadens our sympathies, and binds us together in the Christian faith. Let this coming Sabbath Evening Service be the best in every way, in attendance, and spirit. The Lord is pleased the spirit of unity dwells with a people.

MRS. JACOB ESELMAN DIES AT CRESSON

Cresson, Aug. 15.—Mrs. Jacob W. Eselman, who was suddenly stricken by an attack of uremic poisoning at her home at the Mountain house grounds last evening while entertaining a number of friends at a lawn party on the occasion of her 48th birthday anniversary, died Friday evening about 8:30 o'clock at the Eselman home. Shortly after being stricken by the illness the victim became unconscious and did not revive.

Mrs. Eselman had been in apparent good health until her sudden illness Thursday evening, when she was engaged with several of her guests at cutting the birthday cake prepared in her honor. Dr. J. A. Lynch of this place and Dr. Helfrick of Spangler, who had been attending a meeting at the Cresson sanatorium, were called immediately and remained constantly at the bedside. Late last night, when her condition was determined to be very grave, Dr. J. Clifton Eselman, of Homer City, a son, and Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Gates, of Coalport, parents of the deceased, were summoned to the bedside.

The deceased was born in Center county Aug. 14, 1876, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Gates mentioned above. Besides her parents and husband, she is survived by a brother, Dr. A. C. Gates, of Coalport; a sister, Mrs. J. B. Boyles, of Philadelphia, and one son, Dr. J. Clifton Eselman.

WE'LL SAVE YOU A TON OF COAL DURING THE WINTER

The time is coming when the cold is going to creep in thru every crack and crevice around the windows and doors. And we have the remedy.

This little addition in and around the doors and windows of your home will make them so tight that cold air cannot creep thru and by this means your coal bill will be materially cut down during the winter. Also, the rattly-bang of the loose windows and doors will be shut off because all the loose space is taken up by the little strips of brass.

Let us show you how easy it is to install. Let us show you how it works on a model we have had made up. Let us show you how little it will cost you to equip your home with NUMETAL.

DR. D. S. O'CONNOR VETERANS' FRIEND

Veterans of the World war who have suffered as a result of having been gassed, blinded, crippled or afflicted with tuberculosis or other ill while in the service have a staunch friend in Dr. Denis S. O'Connor of Waterbury, Conn. In recognition of his splendid work in their behalf Doctor O'Connor has just been appointed vice chairman of the American Legion rehabilitation committee in the Second district, including the states of New York, Connecticut and New Jersey.

Needs of these disabled men have been a constant care of Doctor O'Connor. His first active work in their behalf was as a member of the relief and service committee of Corporal Corlie post of Waterbury. In that capacity he got an insight at first hand into what he believed to be gross injustices in the treatment of the men by the United States veterans' bureau.

He had spent much time and effort in fighting through claims which had been rejected as he thought, unjustly, by the veterans' bureau. In 1923 he was elected vice officer of his post. His efficient and self-sacrificing work in that position led to his recent appointment.

Doctor O'Connor was instrumental in having introduced into congress a bill to allow former service men who develop insanity or tuberculosis a longer period in which to file claims for government compensation and care than was then allowed. This object was attained by the passage of the Reed-Johnson bill at the last session of congress.

Hailing from Biddeford, Me., Doctor O'Connor is a graduate of the high school there. After attending the University of Maine and Bowdoin college he graduated from Bowdoin Medical school in 1919.

He had sought admission to the Plattsburg training camp. He was refused a recommendation for admission because he had already specialized training in medicine. He was told to continue that work. He then enlisted in the naval reserve force. Before he was called to the colors he was sent by the United States health service into northern Maine to fight the influenza epidemic which was raging there.

After completing his work in Maine he reported at the First Naval district headquarters at Boston and was sworn into service. He was ordered to Portland, Me., where he was released from active service in December, 1918. He was commissioned a Lieutenant, junior grade, in the medical corps of the navy in December, 1922.

Legionnaire Finds Home for Post in Iowa Town

American Legionnaire H. H. Studley of Cumberland, Iowa, plus an idea, plus the initiative to carry that idea into effect is the combination responsible for the stability and rapid growth of the Cumberland post of the Legion. Legionnaire Studley who, when not engaged in doing most of the town's banking, is busy looking about for some way to improve the local American Legion post, observed the difficulty of holding a post together without clubrooms. He looked about the town and found a basement that was large and had the potentiality of a fine clubroom. He donated his overalls and after two days hard labor had the room all painted and ready for meetings. The post now has a rapidly increasing membership, whereas a few weeks ago it was about to disband.

Fine Membership Record

The Elmer Wilson American Legion post of Corwith, Iowa, recently announced a record membership of fifty-five members out of a possible fifty-eight in the district. The entire population of Corwith is only seven hundred.

Stalling, concerts will be given by Marietta's Swiss Yodlers, a company of five native Swiss musicians, the Pan-American Marimba Band, composed of seven artists from the little republic of Guatemala, the Swarthmore Trio, and Mr. Willem Durieux, Dutch cellist, and Miss Marion Carey, pianist and accompanist for both Mr. Durieux and Miss Stalling.

Two plays of exceptional merit will be presented during the week. The first of these, "Their Honor, the Mayor," which appears on Thursday night, is a modern three-act comedy-drama. It is this year's Chautauqua Drama Prize play, the author having been awarded a prize of $3,000 for the manuscript in competition with 200 other playwrights. The other play is Shakespeare's "As You Like It," which will be presented on Monday night, August 25 by the Vivian Players of New York City. This production has been personally directed by Mr. Percival Vivian. In addition to the plays there will be offered three other entertainments of exceptional merit.

On the last night, Aug. 26, Mr. Sterling Batts, character artist, and life-long student of the works of Charles Dickens, will give a program portraying about a dozen of the great characters whom Dickens drew so masterfully in his novels. The other two entertainments are of more than ordinary interest, the first being that of Mr. Francis Joyner, who gives a program, "Moments With Great Actors," in which he impersonates some of the world's great actors in their favorite roles. The second is given by Sultan, an educated pony, assisted by his mistress, Miss Lindsey. Sultan's program is a special treat to the kiddies.

Locals Trim Osceola Putting Clearfield 3 Ahead Of DuBoisites

Manager Robinson and his league-leading Clearfield ball team were again conveyed to Scott-Field on Saturday last pursuant to the mandate of the League executives, and there went to grips with the Osceola team. As is the case with the other teams Clearfield proved to be too strong for the mountain-top lads and romped home easy victors by an 8 to 5 score.

By winning this game Clearfield again took its place three games ahead of DuBois, our nearest competitor. The win was further gall and wormwood to the Philipsburg contingent, whose salaried representative at the game was McCabe, the sports writer of the Ledger, who acts for the League President during his absence from the game.

Wisor was Manager Robinson's pitching selection, but the Osceola sluggers touched him up so generally that the manager had to deride him after the fact. "Old Reliable" Rex Fauver lobbed them up for the three last frames and had no trouble keeping the enemy runners away from the plate.

McCloskey's hitting and Abe Bailey's wonderful fielding featured the Clearfield's play. Fuese, Osceola's star left-hander, started the game for the mountaineers and got away with it in good shape until the third inning, when he was hit in the arm, hit a line drive to Fuese. The ball struck the pitcher on the shin about the shoe top and bounded back over the base line between third and home. It was a terrific wallop. Fuese gamely finished the inning but yielded five runs, due largely to the handicap of his sore shin. "Doc" Dugan finished the game in fine style.

desirable position to be in baseball, really speaking, but it sure does ruin one's social standing. Because of our position at the top of the League ladder none of the other three teams or three towns will speak to us, in fact it has got to such a pass that President Scott won't even let us play at home. In fact we haven't had a home game for so long that the stockholders of the Club don't know their own players when they go over to Philipsburg's field to see them play, as they have been forced to do for the past couple of weeks.

These amateur teams have to depend on the patronage of their home-town fans to get the wherewithal to pay expenses, and if they get no home games they, as a natural consequence, get no sinews of war, and there you are. Not able to lick us on the field of battle, the enemy has secured the assistance of the League Machinery and are now and have been attempting to make us capitulate by the starvation route.

The League season ends on Labor Day and whether the President allows us to play a single game at home, or attempts to prevent us even getting a little practice on the home lot we are going to continue the battle and win that pennant if it takes all fall and part of the winter, too. Sporting blood is alright, if it don't get too chilly. It quickly congeals over Philipsburg way when their team can't win.

But why take their spite out on us?

Game Commission Against Tinkering With Game Laws

female deer have enjoyed a long period of immunity from the sportsmen's rifles.

The report pays a high tribute to the attitude of sportsmen's organizations throughout the state toward enforcement of the game law.

"Sentiment concerning wild life conservation has immeasurably improved," the report states, "and the law in general is being observed far better than ever before. Such interest and support is invaluable and augurs well for the future of wild life conservation in the Keystone state."

A total of 600,000 persons hunted game last year, the commission reports. Hunters' licenses issued by the commission totaled 500,000 while another 100,000 persons hunted on their own lands as permitted by the law. Thus 62.5 per cent of the population of Pennsylvania was in the field at some time during the season while there were 13 1-2 persons hunting to the square mile in Pennsylvania.

The number of accidents during the hunting season continued to be too high, the commission reported, as there were 37 fatal and 125 non-fatal accidents during the 1922 hunting season and 53 fatal and 105 non-fatal accidents during the 1923 season. Thus 60 persons lost their lives as a result of carelessness and nervousness on the part of hunters while 250 others were injured.

"The number of hunting accidents varies greatly depending somewhat upon weather conditions," is the observation of the game commission.

"During a snowy, icy hunting season there are usually more accidents than during a dry season. Moreover, almost half of the injuries sustained by hunters are self-inflicted, mostly by inexperienced hunters. The new law requiring that boys under 16 years of age be accompanied by a responsible adult has saved quite a few lives. Everything possible is being done by the board, ammunition concerns and the public press to educate hunters in the proper use of firearms so as to avoid accidents."

The actual kill of game in Pennsylvania, the commission reported, seems to be increasing each year. That is particularly true of large game.

"The figures for the kill during the 1922 season indicate that 6,700 tons of game of various kinds were taken in Pennsylvania. This included 6,115 legal buck deer, 543 black bears and 5,400 wild turkeys. The figures on the kill for 1923 have not yet been fully tabulated but will include 6,432 legal buck deer, 23 large bull elk, 500 black bears and over 6,000 wild turkeys of which we have records."

New Cards Patented

A deck of cards, on the corners of which are numbers from 1 to 100, making possible the playing of 50 mathematical games, was recently patented.

Marion Carley and Willem Durieux

Willem Durieux and Marion Carley

Mr. Willem Durieux, the talented Dutch cellist, who, with Marion Carley, is to appear on the Chautauqua program, is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory at the Hague, having had among his teachers such masters as Joseph Giese and Anton Heking, and was later a professor at the same conservatory.

He has appeared as soloist in Holland, Belgium and Germany, with overwhelming success, has played as soloist at two concerts of the New York Symphony Orchestra, and also has appeared with Ysaye, Deereux, Nordica and Spalding.

His concert repertoire is very large, his art is most versatile, and possessing all the necessary qualities of a virtuoso and musician, he is a highly efficient solo and ensemble player.

Press Comments, Europe and America.

No more remarkable performance could have been heard than the ensemble of Mr. Durieux and his pianist. It will make an epoch in musical history.—The Hague, Het Vaderland.

Durieux, the celebrated cellist, is a very great artist. His tone is perfect and his interpretations prove him a be a naturally gifted musician, having full control of his instrument.—Rotterdam, Nieuws-blad.

Mr. Durieux's were a Schumann "Andante," which he played with appropriate seriousness and with beautiful tone, and "At the Fountain," by Davidoff, in which he made the "tello" a thing of dainty lightness.—Courier Journal, Louisville, Ky.

Mr. Durieux, the eminent Dutch cellist, whose solos were uniformly delightful, and who appeared instead of Mr. Leo Schulz. His playing in all his numbers stamped him as one of the finest cellists ever heard here.—White Plains, N. Y., Daily Argus.

Marion Carley is a pianist of unusual musical and technical attainment. She has appeared extensively in concerts as a soloist, ensemble player and accompanist. In the season 1922, she toured with Mme. Frances Alda, of the Metropolitan Opera, as accompanist and soloist. She has also appeared with other artists and has toured in every section of the country. The following is a typical press comment of Miss Carley's work.

The Beethoven Sonata was her outstanding number of the evening, and it is much credit to Miss Carley that she roused her audience to unusual enthusiasm by her interpretation—it deals with those who have gone wrong.

Frank Tannenbaum

Frank Tannenbaum's Visit With Chautauqua

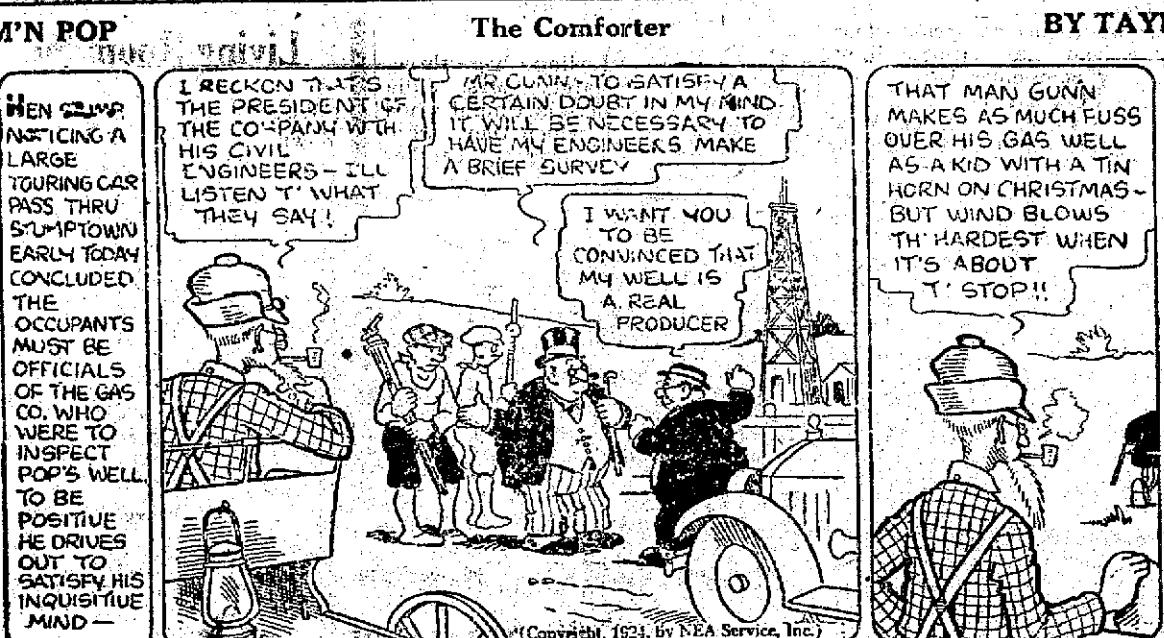

Those who have read Frank Tannenbaum's articles in the Atlantic Monthly on prison conditions in the United States and his suggestions in the way of solution of prison problems, will be prepared to find in Mr. Tannenbaum one of the most astute and enlightened men of the time. However, there will be a surprise that one could have attained and achieved so notably at such an early age. To have landed as an immigrant at 12 and gone on a farm in the rural community, and at 29 to have written a book on the labor movement that is being used as a text in leading colleges and universities of the country, to be the best informed man in the country on prison problems, and to have attained to such unusual distinction as an observer and writer on other subjects, is an achievement that is unusual.

Mr. Tannenbaum is a graduate of Columbia College. He is a contributor to the Atlantic Monthly and to the Century Magazine. Some of his best known books are "The Labor Movement," "Wall Shadows—A Study in American Prisons," both dealing with social and economic problems.

Mr. Tannenbaum has just returned from a trip to Mexico, where he has been representing the Century Magazine and The Survey Graphic.

If we put men in prison primarily to punish them, those who do the punishing are degraded by the spirit and methods of the punishment they inflict, and those punished are also degraded. A vicious circle is made, by which everybody is making everybody else worse. On the other hand, if we conceive our prisons as places where society is protected from its dangerous elements not only by means of prison walls, but also by a circle of beneficent influences whereby men are trained to be useful and to make good within the prison, we reduce to a minimum our dangerous elements and actually convert dangerous men into safe and useful members of society.

As prison experts tell us, the only criminals who are hard to deal with are those who have become professionals, those who have formed the habit of going wrong. Now, the way to break up these wrong habits is to give the enlightenment, the desire, the opportunity and the necessary aid to form good habits. A prison system that does not go to work to make its prisoners better, degenerates into the vicious circle of prison authorities making the prisoners worse, and the prisoners making the prison officials worse. So, society is confronted with the problem of converting a criminal machine, a machine that makes everybody worse, into an institution that makes everybody better. You can't make the prisoners worse without making the prison authorities worse, and society that tolerates the vicious circle makes itself worse. On the other hand, you can't make the prisoners better without getting as a by-product better prison officials, and society that plans and achieves in terms of this kind of betterment makes itself better. There is perhaps no better barometer of society than the way it deals with those who have gone wrong.

Waistline High. We have here the latest waistline about which there has been so much talk, and very charming it is, too. Black crepe with a broad overplaid in the material and fur bands and a narrow belt are the trimmings. The skirt is very full and circular and short as the smartest skirts are and the sleeves are very long and tight. This is a decidedly new line and gives one a chance to deviate from the straight and narrow.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

The Athletic Championships for the boys and girls is attracting attention here. Each playground is busy with its teams to attend the games and trophies are being held in readiness. The day at which time the games will be held. Approximately 100 boys and ten girls will be competing on the playground, making a total of eighty young athletes to compete in the games of Clearfield. Today the girls are throwing the basketball and the boys are competing in standing broad jump. All between the ages of 11 and 16 are eligible to compete in the preliminaries and can do so by going to their respective playgrounds during the day.

The West Side boys and girls got busy on Friday and gave their ground a complete cleaning. They are all in order now.

The Rockville and a Y team will play tonight in a volleyball game at 8:30 on the Rockville court. The game will be well attended.

East End and Rockville are about to meet in the baseball league. The winners of the game tomorrow should be feeling better.

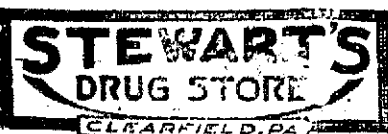

If any teams are to be Thursday, the deciding series may be arranged to be played at the "Gymnasium."

A complete standing of the league will be published tomorrow.

NEW BAND MEMBER

The latest addition to the Clearfield American Legion Band is Tom McCormack, an exceptionally talented saxophone artist and member of the Keystone orchestra. Mr. McCormack is now employed by Manager Seiple of the local Dodge agency and last week affiliated himself with the Legion Band.

A neighboring exchange in speaking of a concert in which Mr. McCormack appeared said of him: "The saxophone solos by Tom McCormack last evening reached a new high. ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

In politics as in other things history has the age-old habit of repeating itself say the men who have watched half a century of national life. It is particularly important that this should be kept in mind at the present moment, they believe, when many of the rank and file of the Republican party are affected by natural curiosity as to the effect that the launching of the La Follette candidacy may have on the fortune of President Coolidge and the success of the party in the November elections.

Here follows some information regarding previous independent movements.

The first independent attempt to split the Republican party was formulated at Cleveland in 1864 and its purpose was to prevent the re-election of Abraham Lincoln. The movement bore more than surface resemblance to the radical convention that nominated La Follette at Cleveland and for this reason its history may be worth recounting.

In 1864 the radical combination that launched the independent ticket, the first of its kind ever launched, nominated General John C. Fremont for president and General John C. Cochrane for vice president. Both candidates were selected from New York state despite the constitutional provision against any one state having the two candidates on a ticket. Some of the New York delegates wanted to nominate General Grant but they were dubbed "Lincoln hirelings" and promptly suppressed the convention.

Fremont and Cochrane accepted the nomination in long letters abusing President Lincoln as a tyrant who ignored the constitution and also a weakling incapable of administering the government or of conducting a successful war. For six weeks they were candidates and they were just as optimistic regarding the campaign as third party candidates usually are immediately after a convention. They made just the kind of claims that are being made at the present time by the supporters of the La Follette ticket.

Before the end of August both Fremont and Cochrane wrote other long letters again abusing and criticizing the president but withdrawing their candidacies. The "Radical Democratic Party," as it was designated by the convention, went into oblivion with the withdrawal of its candidates.

Lincoln, by quoting the Bible reference to the gathering around David after he had taken refuge from King Saul in the cave of Adullam, suggested the name of Adullamites for the third party and as such they were popularly known until their candidacies were withdrawn and they were forgotten.

The only political influence this third party convention of 1864 had was on the Democratic national convention held in Chicago a few weeks later. Many Democratic leaders were impressed with the noise and claims made by the men who met in Cleveland and also with the indiscriminate use made of the names of prominent Republicans as in sympathy with the third party.

They had listed Horace Greely as a delegate to the Cleveland convention because of his criticism of Lincoln, but Greely said that the only convention in which he was interested was the convention of Grant before Richmond. Assuming that the Republican party was hopelessly split, the more radical Democratic leaders in the Chicago convention embodied in the platform a declaration that the war was a failure and demanded a cessation of hostilities. They then proceeded to nominate General McClellan, the most conspicuous failure of the war, as their candidate. These declarations in the platform together with the nomination of General McClellan, alienated thousands of loyal Democrats who openly gave their support to Lincoln assuring his overwhelming election.

The Adullamites of 1864, therefore, contributed to the re-election of Lincoln rather than to his defeat by misleading the Democrats into two calamities in their platform and their candidate.

VISITORS TO FAIR WILL BE SURPRISED

builders of the big Bucknell stadium, with Supt. W. H. Dame in charge.

The big stand is being built of steel and reinforced concrete throughout, is 72x210 feet in size, with concrete ground floor, mezzanine second floor, while the stand at the back or top extends 40 feet into the air. In addition to the facilities mentioned the seating floor will be reached by a main stairway in the center underneath, while exit stairways are supplied at either end. In the rear at the top and the full 210 feet in length, will be a five-foot aisle or promenade, while lavatories and rest rooms are provided on the mezzanine floor. The space underneath the stand will be fitted for display and concession booths. The floor is concrete and equipped with electric lights, water and all necessary conveniences.

The stand will be equipped with comfortable chairs, instead of the usual concrete benches, which will be an added convenience to the patrons, and no necessary expense is being spared to make the stand the finest of its kind to be found anywhere.

The contractors have agreed to have the big stand ready for the fair and as they are now about one week ahead of their time schedule there can be no question but that they will accomplish their purpose and have the big stand completed well within that time.

A HOUSEFUL OF VISITORS

Probably no home in Clearfield is so visited for its hospitality as that of James Gray on Old T. W. Road. Rarely Sunday but that Jim does not have to dig out two or three of the hemlock planks to lengthen the dining room table. This week was no exception. Saturday evening Jim's brother Bill, from Bradenville, Pa., paid his annual visit bringing with him wife and daughter and the latter's husband Mr. Howard Sheriffs of Putnam, Conn. Bill's son Bill was also in the party.

With them was Mr. and Mrs. Benford and son. Benford is the fellow who made Cadillac and Chrysler famous in and around Latrobe. Soon after their arrival came a party from Syracuse, N. Y. In it was Mr. Alex. Forsythe, a sister of Mrs. Gray, his wife and two sons. Jim's son Dick and family arrived from Carnwath as did son-in-law John Maxwell from Osceola with Mrs. Maxwell and a little Maxwell runabout. Still Jim wasn't satisfied so he sent for the Hynds next door, his son George and family and the Stewarts across the street. Thru it all he smiled.

Seven Points of Supremacy

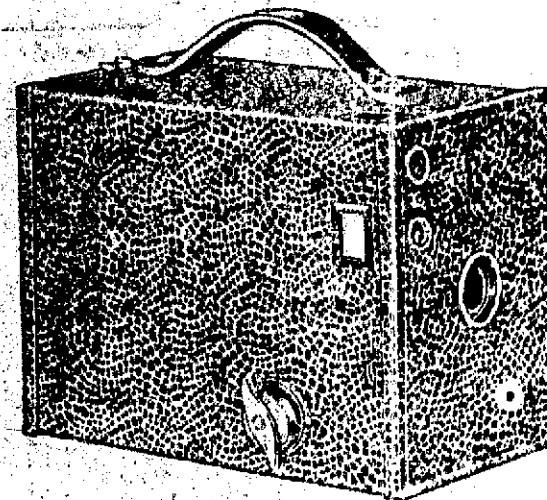

1. The sole leather used in "FOOT-FITTERS" is of the best quality obtainable. Even the insoles are cut from standard outside leather.
2. "FOOT-FITTERS" are the only shoes in the world having full length vamp and sole leather box toes. This feature prevents ripping at the tip and makes a smooth outer and inner surface.
3. The insoles are channelled so that they fit tightly against the outside. There is no need of room for a cork filler. A small piece of duck is used to prevent squeaking.
4. The Calfein inside counter pocket is of great value, for it saves the wear on the socks. There is no rough surface to rub against.
5. "FOOT-FITTERS" heels are 12-inch longer than generally used. They give additional support to the arch and increase the comfort and wear of the shoe.
6. The vamp is reinforced with 8-oz. duck. This absorbs the moisture from the foot, thus keeps the vamp from cracking and holds the shoe in shape.
7. Edmonds "FOOT-FITTERS" shoes are called "FOOT-FITTERS" because they fit the foot snugly. Built on combination lasts they support the foot like a doctor's hand. "FOOT-FITTERS" give Comfort, Service and Appearance.

GOODYEAR SERVICE STATION

While this business has been in existence only since last February, it has grown to be one of the most important in local automobile circles. Originally started as a tire and accessory store, by Mr. F. B. Johnston, it soon became apparent that there was need of a vulcanizing plant in this city. A gasoline station and oil service station has been added to the equipment and at the present time the building is undergoing extensive repairs to accommodate the growing business which has come to this business through the medium of fair dealing and courteous service.

The firm is now composed of F. B. Johnston and Roy Curley, both men of high business ideals and unfailing courtesy. The location of the plant, just opposite the Pennsylvania passenger station on Third Street, makes the place easily accessible to every section of the entire vicinity.

Why It Will Pay You To Trade In Clearfield

"No man liveth unto himself alone."

So runs the scripture. And because this is true we have "community pride". And community pride promotes those improvements which will bring about a closer relationship between the people of the town and the people of the county, between the people as a whole and the community business center.

True Citizenship is not all in "Rally 'round the Flag" of our country and singing "Hail Columbia" at the top of our voices, nor does it find its greatest expression at the street corner meeting in the loudest voice present.

"Practice What You Preach" is a saying which may well be applied to define "True Citizenship", because the true spirit of true citizenship is shown by the person who patronizes home industries first, last and all time, trades with the home merchant and always uses "Home Goods".

In time of plenty or in time of stress; when danger besets us, or the whole world seems to be bright and happy, we can render no greater service to this great country of ours than by doing our part in keeping intact the resources of our own town—furthering the great spirit of Democracy which has made this nation the leader of the world and our part of that program is to make Clearfield a Bigger and Better City.

LAWYERS IN CONGRESS

Congress, considered as representing the nation, does so geographically, but falls far short of it occupationally. Anyone who imagines that that body is a cross-section of American society may learn from an article in the New Republic that if it were so, lawyers would be the most numerous class in the country.

There is an amazing preponderance of lawyers in Congress. In the House there are now 262 lawyers to 44 merchants, 13 teachers, 13 journalists, 10 farmers, 9 bankers, 9 manufacturers and a negligible scattering of other occupations. The Senate 53 lawyers to 8 farmers, 6 businessmen, 3 bankers, 3 journalists, 3 doctors and 3 teachers.

It is natural that lawyers should be elected to public office, especially to legislative bodies. They are usually clever speakers and good campaigners. Also, since the business of a legislature is making laws, lawyers are presumably better qualified than other men. But obviously the thing is being overdone.

On general principles, it is more important to have the sentiment of the country's various social, professional and economic groups adequately represented than to have representatives skilled in interpreting and writing laws. What any important group of citizens wants done is the main thing; lawyers can always be employed, when needed, to give the proper technical form to new laws.

Without any prejudice against the legal profession, it should be acknowledged that it would be better for representative government if such important groups as farmers, merchants, manufacturers, skilled workmen, doctors, educators and engineers were more fully represented in Congress and the state legislatures.

SAFE PLAYGROUNDS

Getting playground children to write a safe play code for themselves looks like a very useful way to work for their safety. That is what the Cleveland Safety Council is doing.

Hundreds of children from the many playgrounds of the community have sent in suggestions about ways to make play safe. A convention of councils from all the playgrounds will meet and select the 10 best suggestions for the playground safety code. Some typical suggestions were:

- "Don't fight, just scrap."
- "Don't hang on by the legs too long."
- "Don't blow an automobile horn for fun."
- "Don't hop on the ice wagon."
- "Don't throw stones, even if you don't hit anyone."
- "Don't drink from the hose."
- "Don't throw nails on the ground."
- "Don't run between pegs when a horseshoe game is on."
- "Don't neglect scratches."

The few samples given show that the youngsters are thinking of pretty nearly everything. And regardless of what the skeptics may say, the accident total among a lot of children who are thinking so thoroughly about safety is going to be lower than in other communities.

Saving Is A Mighty Power

People ought to know the big things that can be done with little savings.

A few hundred dollars started John D. Rockefeller in the oil business. A few thousand dollars of original investment made the Astors a race of millionaires.

Progress Editorials for Women

THEY LIKED HER ANYHOW

By FLORENCE DAVIES
"I don't understand it," exclaimed a clubwoman who was telling of a bit of a row she had just had with the club. "I don't understand it. I got so mad at 'em all that I said dreadful things to them, and I thought they would never speak to me again, but they do. They seem to like me anyhow, and I'm sure I don't know why."

I wanted to interrupt her and tell her that if she didn't understand it I did. For I knew the woman. I didn't doubt her assertion that she spoke her mind. I knew she would. And I knew it might not be pleasant to hear, for when Anne speaks, she speaks to the point. I also knew that if there's one thing that isn't conducive to harmony in the average woman's club it's a propensity on the part of the members to "speak their minds." And yet Anne had done this very thing and they still liked her, to her great surprise.

The thing was perfectly simple. Anne was the living embodiment of sincerity. If she spoke her mind, it was because she honestly believed what she said and honestly cared and chided her club sisters as a loving mother chides her erring children. And the fact is that there is something about the absolutely genuine, something about unmitigated, undiluted sincerity that makes itself felt. If the club sisters took their tongue lashings from Anne when they knew perfectly well that Anne never fought for herself, never tried to pull wires, never tried to foster pet causes by little political subterfuges, Anne was forthright and out in the open about everything she undertook. She never had any pet friends to work for, she had hundreds of friends to whom she was loyal.

Even a woman's club, that touchstone of all organizations in the world, we sometimes think, can come to blows with a woman like that and not hold spite.

It was all because Anne was genuine, from the top of her fluffy golden hair, which in a perfectly genuine sincere way was a way of escaping hair nets, to the soles of her honest, comfortable, common-sense shoes. You might want to get mad at her when she tells you you're wrong, but you simply couldn't, because it isn't you that Anne rages at, it's the thing she thinks mistaken, and that's all. Any one with any sense can't escape that fact, and any one with any fairness is bound to recognize it. So Anne burst out now and then and rages, and they like her just the same. She can't quite understand it. It's all because sincerity is about the most refreshing thing in the world.

THE UNION SERVICE

Last night the Presbyterian Church was filled to the doors for the Union service of the Five Churches uniting for the summer evening worship. The singing of the combined choirs was most excellent. It was a most inspiring meeting. It was one of those services from which one goes away blessed, uplifted, and helped. Dr. John M. Waddell, a minister of the Presbyterian Church here 20 years ago preached a most masterful sermon on the theme of "Fear." It was a sermon of blessing, and helpfulness, one that is a lift along the way, a voice of good cheer, and hope. Many of other congregations rejoiced in the opportunity of hearing him. Next Sabbath is the last of the Summer Union Services, and it is with great regret that they do not extend longer. Not for years has a combined effort like this resulted in such a successful outcome. It is a great thing for every congregation and every individual to unite in such fellowship meetings as these. It broadens our sympathies, and binds us together in the Christian faith. Let this coming Sabbath Evening Service be the best in every way, in attendance, and spirit. The Lord is pleased the spirit of unity dwells with a people.

MRS. JACOB ESELMAN DIES AT CRESSON

Cresson, Aug. 15.—Mrs. Jacob W. Eselman, who was suddenly stricken by an attack of uremic poisoning at her home at the Mountain house grounds last evening while entertaining a number of friends at a lawn party on the occasion of her 48th birthday anniversary, died Friday evening about 8:30 o'clock at the Eselman home. Shortly after being stricken by the illness the victim became unconscious and did not revive.

Mrs. Eselman had been in apparent good health until her sudden illness Thursday evening, when she was engaged with several of her guests at cutting the birthday cake prepared in her honor. Dr. J. A. Lynch of this place and Dr. Helfrick of Spangler, who had been attending a meeting at the Cresson sanatorium, were called immediately and remained constantly at the bedside. Late last night, when her condition was determined to be very grave, Dr. J. Clifton Eselman, of Homer City, a son, and Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Gates, of Coalport, parents of the deceased, were summoned to the bedside.

The deceased was born in Center county Aug. 14, 1876, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Gates mentioned above. Besides her parents and husband, she is survived by a brother, Dr. A. C. Gates, of Coalport; a sister, Mrs. J. B. Boyles, of Philadelphia, and one son, Dr. J. Clifton Eselman.

WE'LL SAVE YOU A TON OF COAL DURING THE WINTER

The time is coming when the cold is going to creep in thru every crack and crevice around the windows and doors. And we have the remedy.

This little addition in and around the doors and windows of your home will make them so tight that cold air cannot creep thru and by this means your coal bill will be materially cut down during the winter. Also, the rattly-bang of the loose windows and doors will be shut off because all the loose space is taken up by the little strips of brass.

Let us show you how easy it is to install. Let us show you how it works on a model we have had made up. Let us show you how little it will cost you to equip your home with NUMETAL.

Machinery Guards

The state laws are now very strict on the subject of guarding all belts and other moving machinery parts. We are prepared to take the necessary measurements and make up neat workmanlike metal guards that will conform to the requirements of the Department of Labor and Industry.

We have installed many such guards in our own plant and will be glad to show them to anyone interested.

CELERY HEARTS

Sure we have them—every day. We know that you'll enjoy eating them because you will find them tender, yet crisp.

They come from that famous Michigan celery country where they have celery-growing down to a fine art and there is something in the ground that seems to impart a flavor to celery, that no other section of the country has.

We always have plenty for you.

DR. D. S. O'CONNOR VETERANS' FRIEND

Veterans of the World war who have suffered as a result of having been gassed, blinded, crippled or afflicted with tuberculosis or other ill while in the service have a staunch friend in Dr. Denis S. O'Connor of Waterbury, Conn. In recognition of his splendid work in their behalf Doctor O'Connor has just been appointed vice chairman of the American Legion rehabilitation committee in the Second district, including the states of New York, Connecticut and New Jersey.

Needs of these disabled men have been a constant care of Doctor O'Connor. His first active work in their behalf was as a member of the relief and service committee of Corporal Corlie post of Waterbury. In that capacity he got an insight at first hand into what he believed to be gross injustices in the treatment of the men by the United States veterans' bureau.

He had spent much time and effort in fighting through claims which had been rejected as he thought, unjustly, by the veterans' bureau. In 1923 he was elected vice officer of his post. His efficient and self-sacrificing work in that position led to his recent appointment.

Doctor O'Connor was instrumental in having introduced into congress a bill to allow former service men who develop insanity or tuberculosis a longer period in which to file claims for government compensation and care than was then allowed. This object was attained by the passage of the Reed-Johnson bill at the last session of congress.

Hailing from Biddeford, Me., Doctor O'Connor is a graduate of the high school there. After attending the University of Maine and Bowdoin college he graduated from Bowdoin Medical school in 1919.

He had sought admission to the Plattsburg training camp. He was refused a recommendation for admission because he had already specialized training in medicine. He was told to continue that work. He then enlisted in the naval reserve force. Before he was called to the colors he was sent by the United States health service into northern Maine to fight the influenza epidemic which was raging there.

After completing his work in Maine he reported at the First Naval district headquarters at Boston and was sworn into service. He was ordered to Portland, Me., where he was released from active service in December, 1918. He was commissioned a Lieutenant, junior grade, in the medical corps of the navy in December, 1922.

Legionnaire Finds Home for Post in Iowa Town

American Legionnaire H. H. Studley of Cumberland, Iowa, plus an idea, plus the initiative to carry that idea into effect is the combination responsible for the stability and rapid growth of the Cumberland post of the Legion. Legionnaire Studley who, when not engaged in doing most of the town's banking, is busy looking about for some way to improve the local American Legion post, observed the difficulty of holding a post together without clubrooms. He looked about the town and found a basement that was large and had the potentiality of a fine clubroom. He donated his overalls and after two days hard labor had the room all painted and ready for meetings. The post now has a rapidly increasing membership, whereas a few weeks ago it was about to disband.

Fine Membership Record

The Elmer Wilson American Legion post of Corwith, Iowa, recently announced a rapid membership of fifty-five members out of a possible fifty-eight in the district. The entire population of Corwith is only seven hundred.

Chautauqua Opens

Wednesday

Stalling, concerts will be given by Marietta's Swiss Yodlers, a company of five native Swiss musicians, the Pan-American Marimba Band, composed of seven artists from the little republic of Guatemala, the Swarthmore Trio, and Mr. Willem Durieux, Dutch cellist, and Miss Marion Carey, pianist and accompanist for both Mr. Durieux and Miss Stalling.

Two plays of exceptional merit will be presented during the week. The first of these, "Their Honor, the Mayor," which appears on Thursday night, is a modern three-act comedy-drama. It is this year's Chautauqua Drama prize play, the author having been awarded a prize of $3,000 for the manuscript in competition with 200 other playwrights. The other play is Shakespeare's "As You Like It," which will be presented on Monday night, August 25 by the Vivian Players of New York City. This production has been personally directed by Mr. Percival Vivian. In addition to the plays there will be offered three other entertainments of exceptional merit: On the last night, Aug. 26, Mr. Sterling Batts, character artist, and life-long student of the works of Charles Dickens, will give a program portraying about a dozen of the great characters whom Dickens drew so masterfully in his novels. The other two entertainments are of more than ordinary interest, the first being that of Mr. Francis Joyner, who gives a program, "Moments With Great Actors," in which he impersonates some of the world's great actors in their favorite roles. The second is given by Sultan, an educated pony, assisted by his mistress, Miss Lindsey. Sultan's program is a special treat to the kiddies.

Locals Trim Osceola Putting Clearfield 3 Ahead Of DuBoisites

Manager Robinson and his league-leading Clearfield ball team were again conveyed to Scott-Field on Saturday last pursuant to the mandate of the League executives, and there went to grips with the Osceola team. As is the case with the other teams Clearfield proved to be too strong for the mountain-top lads and romped home easy victors by an 8 to 5 score.

By winning this game Clearfield again took its place three games ahead of DuBois, our nearest competitor. The win was further gall and wormwood to the Philipsburg contingent, whose salaried representative at the game was McCabe, the sports writer of the Ledger, who acts for the League President during his absence from the game.

Wisor was Manager Robinson's pitching selection, but the Osceola sluggers touched him up so generally that the manager had to deride him after the fact. "Old Reliable" Rex Fauver lobbed them up for the three last frames and had no trouble keeping the enemy runners away from the plate.

McCloskey's hitting and Abe Bailey's wonderful fielding featured the Clearfield's play. Fuese, Osceola's star left-hander, started the game for the mountaineers and got away with it in good shape until the third inning, when he was hit in the arm, hit a line drive to Fuese. The ball struck the pitcher on the shin about the shoe top and bounded back over the base line between third and home. It was a terrific wallop. Fuese gamely finished the inning but yielded five runs, due largely to the handicap of his sore shin. "Doc" Dugan finished the game in fine style.

desirable position to be in baseball, really speaking, but it sure does ruin one's social standing. Because of our position at the top of the League ladder none of the other three teams or three towns will speak to us, in fact it has got to such a pass that President Scott won't even let us play at home. In fact we haven't had a home game for so long that the stockholders of the Club don't know their own players when they go over to Philipsburg's field to see them play, as they have been forced to do for the past couple of weeks.

These amateur teams have to depend on the patronage of their home-town fans to get the wherewithal to pay expenses, and if they get no home games they, as a natural consequence, get no sinews of war, and there you are. Not able to lick us on the field of battle, the enemy has secured the assistance of the League Machinery and are now and have been attempting to make us capitulate by the starvation route.

The League season ends on Labor Day and whether the President allows us to play a single game at home, or attempts to prevent us even getting a little practice on the home lot we are going to continue the battle and win that pennant if it takes all fall and part of the winter, too. Sporting blood is alright, if it don't get too chilly. It quickly congeals over Philipsburg way when their team can't win.

But why take their spite out on us?

Game Commission Against Tinkering With Game Laws

female deer have enjoyed a long period of immunity from the sportsmen's rifles.

The report pays a high tribute to the attitude of sportsmen's organizations throughout the state toward enforcement of the game law.

"Sentiment concerning wild life conservation has immeasurably improved," the report states, "and the law in general is being observed far better than ever before. Such interest and support is invaluable and augurs well for the future of wild life conservation in the Keystone state."

A total of 600,000 persons hunted game last year, the commission reports. Hunters' licenses issued by the commission totaled 500,000 while another 100,000 persons hunted on their own lands as permitted by the law. Thus 62.5 per cent of the population of Pennsylvania was in the field at some time during the season while there were 13 1-2 persons hunting to the square mile in Pennsylvania.

The number of accidents during the hunting season continued to be too high, the commission reported, as there were 37 fatal and 125 non-fatal accidents during the 1922 hunting season and 53 fatal and 105 non-fatal accidents during the 1923 season. Thus 60 persons lost their lives as a result of carelessness and nervousness on the part of hunters while 250 others were injured.

"The number of hunting accidents varies greatly depending somewhat upon weather conditions," is the observation of the game commission.

"During a snowy, icy hunting season there are usually more accidents than during a dry season. Moreover, almost half of the injuries sustained by hunters are self-inflicted, mostly by inexperienced hunters. The new law requiring that boys under 16 years of age be accompanied by a responsible adult has saved quite a few lives. Everything possible is being done by the board, ammunition concerns and the public press to educate hunters in the proper use of firearms so as to avoid accidents."

The actual kill of game in Pennsylvania, the commission reported, seems to be increasing each year. That is particularly true of large game.

"The figures for the kill during the 1922 season indicate that 6,700 tons of game of various kinds were taken in Pennsylvania. This included 6,115 legal buck deer, 543 black bears and 5,400 wild turkeys. The figures on the kill for 1923 have not yet been fully tabulated but will include 6,432 legal buck deer, 23 large bull elk, 500 black bears and over 6,000 wild turkeys of which we have records."

New Cards Patented

A deck of cards, on the corners of which are numbers from 1 to 100, making possible the playing of 50 mathematical games, was recently patented.

Marion Carley and Willem Durieux

Willem Durieux and Marion Carley

Mr. Willem Durieux, the talented Dutch cellist, who, with Marion Carley, is to appear on the Chautauqua program, is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory at the Hague, having had among his teachers such masters as Joseph Giese and Anton Heking, and was later a professor at the same conservatory.

He has appeared as soloist in Holland, Belgium and Germany, with overwhelming success, has played as soloist at two concerts of the New York Symphony Orchestra, and also has appeared with Ysaye, Deereux, Nordica and Spalding.

His concert repertoire is very large, his art is most versatile, and possessing all the necessary qualities of a virtuoso and musician, he is a highly efficient solo and ensemble player.

Press Comments, Europe and America.

No more remarkable performance could have been heard than the ensemble of Mr. Durieux and his pianist. It will make an epoch in musical history.—The Hague, Het Vaderland.

Durieux, the celebrated cellist, is a very great artist. His tone is perfect and his interpretations prove him to be a naturally gifted musician, having full control of his instrument.—Rotterdam, Nieuws-blad.

Mr. Durieux's were a Schumann "Andante," which he played with appropriate seriousness and with beautiful tone, and "At the Fountain," by Davidoff, in which he made the "tello" a thing of dainty lightness.—Courier Journal, Louisville, Ky.

Mr. Durieux, the eminent Dutch cellist, whose solos were uniformly delightful, and who appeared instead of Mr. Leo Schulz. His playing in all his numbers stamped him as one of the finest cellists ever heard here.—White Plains, N. Y., Daily Argus.

Marion Carley is a pianist of unusual musical and technical attainment. She has appeared extensively in concerts as a soloist, ensemble player and accompanist. In the season 1922, she toured with Mme. Frances Alda, of the Metropolitan Opera, as accompanist and soloist. She has also appeared with other artists and has toured in every section of the country. The following is a typical press comment of Miss Carley's work.

The Beethoven Sonata was her outstanding number of the evening, and it is much credit to Miss Carley that she roused her audience to unusual enthusiasm by her interpretation—it deals with those who have gone wrong.

Frank Tannenbaum

Frank Tannenbaum's Visit With Chautauqua

Those who have read Frank Tannenbaum's articles in the Atlantic Monthly on prison conditions in the United States and his suggestions in the way of solution of prison problems, will be prepared to find in Mr. Tannenbaum one of the most astute and enlightened men of the time. However, there will be a surprise that one could have attained and achieved so notably at such an early age. To have landed as an immigrant at 12 and gone on a farm in the rural community, and at 29 to have written a book on the labor movement that is being used as a text in leading colleges and universities of the country, to be the best informed man in the country on prison problems, and to have attained to such unusual distinction as an observer and writer on other subjects, is an achievement that is unusual.

Mr. Tannenbaum is a graduate of Columbia College. He is a contributor to the Atlantic Monthly and to the Century Magazine. Some of his best known books are "The Labor Movement," "Wall Shadows—A Study in American Prisons," both dealing with social and economic problems.

Mr. Tannenbaum has just returned from a trip to Mexico, where he has been representing the Century Magazine and The Survey Graphic.

If we put men in prison primarily to punish them, those who do the punishing are degraded by the spirit and methods of the punishment they inflict, and those punished are also degraded. A vicious circle is made, by which everybody is making everybody else worse. On the other hand, if we conceive our prisons as places where society is protected from its dangerous elements not only by means of prison walls, but also by a circle of beneficent influences whereby men are trained to be useful and to make good within the prison, we reduce to a minimum our dangerous elements and actually convert dangerous men into safe and useful members of society.

As prison experts tell us, the only criminals who are hard to deal with are those who have become professionals, those who have formed the habit of going wrong. Now, the way to break up these wrong habits is to give the enlightenment, the desire, the opportunity and the necessary aid to form good habits. A prison system that does not go to work to make its prisoners better, degenerates into the vicious circle of prison authorities making the prisoners worse, and the prisoners making the prison officials worse. So, society is confronted with the problem of converting a criminal machine, a machine that makes everybody worse, into an institution that makes everybody better. You can't make the prisoners worse without making the prison authorities worse, and society that tolerates the vicious circle makes itself worse. On the other hand, you can't make the prisoners better without getting as a by-product better prison officials, and society that plans and achieves in terms of this kind of betterment makes itself better. There is perhaps no better barometer of society than the way it deals with those who have gone wrong.

Black crepe with a broad overplaid is the material and fur bands and a narrow belt are the trimmings. The skirt is very full and circular and short as the smartest skirts are and the sleeves are very long and tight. This is a decidedly new line and gives one a chance to deviate from the straight and narrow.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

The Athletic Championships for the boys and girls is attracting attention here. Each playground is busy with its teams to attend the games, and trophies are being held in readiness. The day at which time the games will be held is off. Approximately 100 boys and ten girls will be competing on the playground, making a total of eighty young athletes to compete in the games of Clearfield. Today the girls are throwing the basketball and the boys are competing in standing broad jump. All between the ages of 11 and 16 are eligible to compete in the preliminaries and can do so by going to their respective playgrounds during the day.

The West Side boys and girls got busy on Friday and gave their ground a complete cleaning. They are all in order now.

The Rockville and a Y team will play tonight in a volleyball game at 8:30 on the Rockville court. The game will be well watched.

East End and Rockville are about to meet in the baseball league. The winners of the game tomorrow should be feeling better.

If any teams are to be Thursday, the deciding series may be arranged to be played at the "Olympics."

A complete standing of the league will be published tomorrow.

THE VERY LATEST IDEAS

in bathroom appointments provide for invisible plumbing. Everything except the mirror is beautifully chaste white. Such a bathroom is a source of pleasure to the family and a matter of pride to the heads of the house. It also adds both distinction and value to the house. We shall be glad to tell you about the cost of such a lavatory and toilet. It is not so great as you may think.
